

Comments on inaugural issue of PSU Research Review: An International Journal

Comment from the Founding Editor

In April 2016 the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia's leadership announced the Vision 2030 and laid out the blueprint for building a vibrant society, enriched by its human resources and ready to assume a leadership role in world affairs.

This vision has captured the hearts and minds of the diverse communities in Saudi Arabia. Prince Sultan University (PSU) has embraced the vision and has already proven itself as a leader in private higher education.

The launch of the PSU Research Review: An International Journal announces PSU's presence at the international level and recognizing its research efforts to be one of the top 200 higher education institutions in the world ranking. Emerald is a reputed publisher and through collaboration with them, our vision will be fulfilled.

Comment from the Editor in Chief

PSU Research Review: An International Journal is a true “international journal” having 162 editorial members from 44 countries across the globe.

This journal will certainly create a stronger global understanding of issues from academic and practitioner perspectives. We, Prince Sultan University, are delighted to have a collaboration with Emerald which has 50 years of publishing experience.
